

Local systems for delivering resilient and sustainable health and social care services are growing in complexity

Local Partnerships is part of the public sector family. We are a joint venture between the LGA, HM Treasury and Welsh Government.

Joining up the many factors that need to be considered and successfully managed between councils and their partners is highly challenging and increasingly complex. We help councils and other public and third sector organisations navigate the multifaceted processes and mechanisms required to develop and deliver solutions to meet these challenges.

A large London Borough

Support to increase inter-agency capability to carry out effective micro-commissioning. This will enable more residents to have greater choice and control in how they organise and receive their care and support.

Third Sector Provider Collaboration

Design of content and process for an integrated performance management framework for a health and care Single Point of Access Service. This is helping deliver better community-based care crisis management, managing demand for adult social care and system-wide resource efficiencies.

A County Council

Review of the current approach to performance management of their local Better Care Fund Programme. Recommendations were made to improve the ways in which the effectiveness of monitoring and management of individual schemes and overall inter-agency programme governance could be improved to ensure the programme's outcomes are delivered.

A Unitary Authority

A benchmarking exercise designed around the key priorities of the Health and Wellbeing Board to illustrate the resource and quality benefits of extending their local ambitions for integrated service delivery. This exploration of options allowed the local system and partners to increase the pace of service transformation.

The need has never been greater to design a system that delivers affordable, quality and personalised services. Our team combines experience across the public and private sectors. We only work for the public sector, helping local health and care systems find innovative, sustainable solutions to overcome the challenges you face.
